Background | Brief Overview

The Technology sector is in dire need of females with tech skills to bridge the void and ensure that there is enough talent for the future, especially in the areas of “Stem”. The need to convince the existing generation that computer science isn’t just for boys is important for the fact that men and women together build a nation. Hence, growth and prosperity of a nation needs the input of both males and females of a country.

Taking this reality into account, the cycle of male domination in IT industry needs to be broken, as gender diversity holds great benefits for the company and the nation, on the whole. A Major factors and Challenges in the workplaces that have created a huge barrier between women and their bright future in technology are:

- Gender Stereotype
- Time Flexibility
- Lack of Female Role models
- Lack of Mentorship at workplace
- No Rest Area at Workplace
- Comfortable and Secure Environment
- Lack of Talent Pool
- Lack of Work-Life Balance
- Lack of Training Resources
- Lack of Networking Opportunities
- Group Favoritism
- Sexual Harassment at work
- Getting Back after Career Breaks
- The Parent Trap

Our Values | In Our Company

Established in 2019, A Women Technology House isn't exclusive to females alone. It extends its support to males as well. It's like the counterpart of a software house but with a female-dominated environment. However, it warmly welcomes males too. Its aim isn't to segregate women but rather to provide them with facilities and resources while respecting cultural norms. It's not about feminism; it's about promoting gender balance and inclusivity.
